

FAITH WHITTLESEY:

Remember, Ginger Rogers did everything Fred Astaire did, but she did it backwards and in high heels.

ANNA GARLIN SPENCER:

A successful woman preacher was once asked "what special obstacles have you met as a woman in the ministry?" "Not one," she answered, "except the lack of a minister's wife."

CHARLOTTE WHITTON:

Whatever women do they must do twice as well as men to be thought half as good. Luckily, this is not difficult.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT:

I know the price of success: dedication, hard work, and an unremitting devotion to the things you want to see happen.

ELIZABETH DOLE:

Women share with men the need for personal success, even the taste of power, and no longer are we willing to satisfy those needs through the achievements of surrogates, whether husbands, children, or merely role models.

SOPHIA LOREN:

Getting ahead in a difficult profession requires avid faith in yourself. That is why some people with mediocre talent, but with great inner drive, go much further than people with vastly superior talent.

ALEX NOBLE:

If I have been of service, if I have glimpsed more of the nature and essence of ultimate good, if I am inspired to reach wider horizons of thought and action, if I am at peace with myself, it has been a successful day.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT:

Campaign behavior for wives:
Always be on time. Do as little talking as humanly possible. Lean back in the parade car so everybody can see the president.

ANNA GARLIN SPENCER:

The failure of women to produce genius of the first rank in most of the supreme forms of human effort has been used to block the way of all women of talent and ambition for intellectual achievement in a manner that would be amusingly absurd were it not so monstrously unjust and socially harmful.

ROBERT F. KENNEDY:

Only those who dare to fail greatly can ever achieve greatly.

BARBARA JORDAN:

All my growth and development led me to believe that if you really do the right thing, and if you play by the rules, and if you've got good enough, solid judgment and common sense, that you're going to be able to do whatever you want to do with your life.

LAUREL THATCHER ULRICH:

Well behaved women rarely make history.

HELEN KELLER:

I long to accomplish a great and noble task, but it is my chief duty to accomplish humble tasks as though they were great and noble. The world is moved along, not only by the mighty shoves of its heroes, but also by the aggregate of the tiny pushes of each honest worker.

UNKNOWN:

Some leaders are born women.

Viscount Helmsley:

The way in which certain types of women, easily recognized, have acted in the last year or two, especially in the last few weeks, lends a great deal of color to the argument that the mental equilibrium of the female sex is not as stable as the mental equilibrium of the male sex.

Alexis Dupuy:

Men marry to make an end;
women to make a beginning.

Timothy Leary:

Women who seek to be equal with men lack ambition.

Lord Byron:

A woman should never be seen eating or drinking, unless it be lobster salad and Champagne, the only true feminine and becoming viands.

Chuck Palahniuk:

Every woman is just a different kind of problem.

Alexander Pope:

Most women have no characters at all.

Aristotle Onassis, Greek

Industrialist:

If women didn't exist, all the money in the world would have no meaning.

President of Harvard University, Lawrence H. Summers: explained innate differences between men and women might be one reason fewer women succeed in science and math careers in a speech.

William Butler Yeats:

To be born woman is to know - although they do not speak of it at school - women must labor to be beautiful.

July 1, 1933 in History Event: German Nazi regime decides married women shouldn't work

Grace Saxon Mills:

The physical nature of women unfits them for direct competition with men.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton:

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men and women are created equal.
